

Performance Environments

- Different settings for dance performances

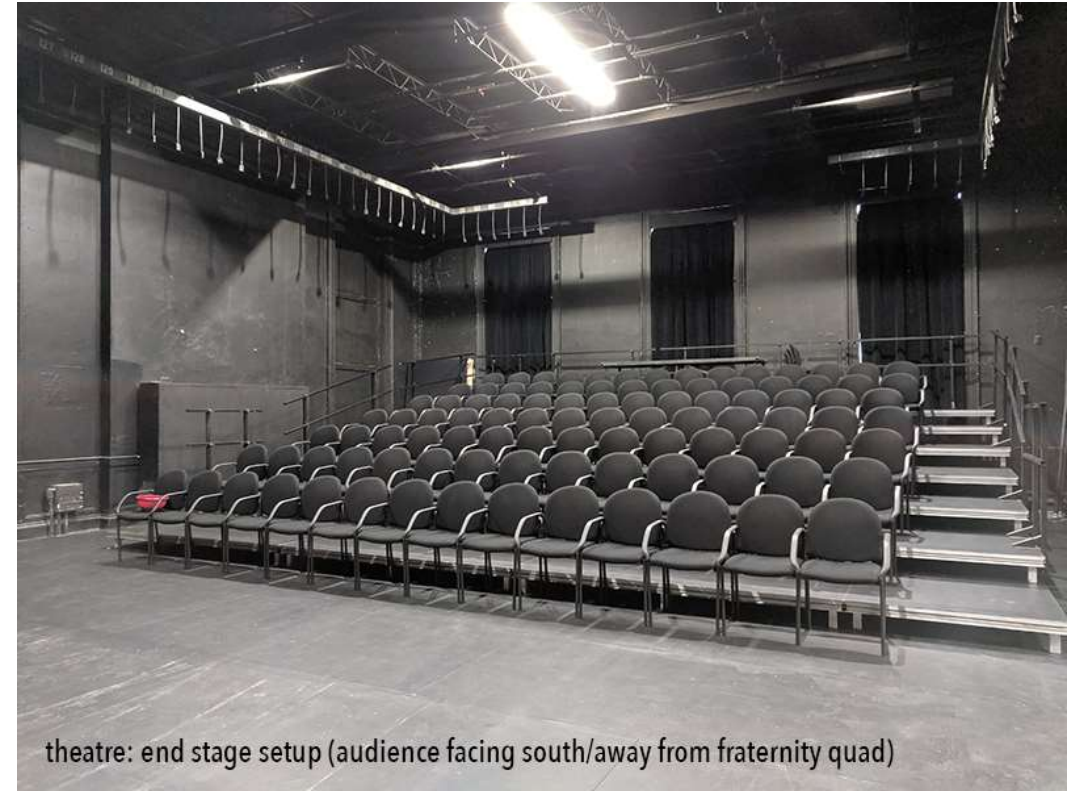

Proscenium Arch

The arch or opening that creates the effect of a picture frame and separates the stage from the auditorium.

In-the-round

A performing area with the audience seated on all sides theatre: end stage setup (audience facing south/away from fraternity quad)

End-stage

A performance space with the audience on one side;
also known as 'end-on'.

Site sensitive

Dances that are designed for (or relate to) non-theatre spaces.